Tiredness upon waking. A common ailment that can affect anyone, but what can be done? Imagine a powerful antioxidant shown to help adjust circadian rhythms for healthier sleep cycles. Melatonin, often called the sleep hormone, is naturally created by the body to do just that. Vinco's Melatonin 10 mg is not the creation of a lab, but instead works with the body's chemistry to help improve your overall sleep quality.†

Melatonin

- A hormone secreted by the pineal gland in the brain
- Helps to regulate the levels of some hormones, blood pressure, body temperature, blood glucose, and body weight
- Maintains the body's circadian rhythm, or internal clock
- Helps to increase the melatonin in the body for those who do not produce enough of it
- Combats disorders linked to circadian dysfunction, including jet lag, seasonal affective disorder, insomnia, and more†
- Works against environmental factors impacting sleep, such as blue light exposure, smoking and alcohol use, shift work, and caffeine†
